PAPER: 110
TITLE: Dynamic programming to solve picking schedule at the tea plantation
AUTHORS: Siti Mahsanah Budijati

Overall evaluation: 3 (Weak Accept)

----- Overall evaluation -----

Abstract:- please rewrite the abstract. The abstract is too general and do not shows the overall of the study.

Methods: - There is not enough explanations for all the methodology.

- The equations should be in italic
- No explanations in 2.2 Description of decision flow
- Not clear explanation and writing for Recursive function. Please write the function clearly

Analysis: - Please confirm whether the figure in Table 1, 4,6,7 and 8 COMMA OR DECIMAL. It is confusing values.

- There is not enough explanation of all results from the tables.
- Table 8 should be in English written
- There is no results from the comparison methods. The author claims that the proposed method is better for the total cost, but there is no evidence to support this claim. It is same for the objective (2). The author did not gave any evidence of results to support the claim that the proposed method is easier to achieve. Please provide all the evidences.

Comments on Paper ID 110

This paper discusses the application of dynamic programming technique for solving the picking schedule at the tea plantation. The model formulation on the recursion function and the boundary conditions are described clearly. In addition, the result obtained shows the effectiveness of the technique used for the picking schedule. However, the presentation of the paper shall be further improved. Some comments are given as follow:

In Section 1

1. In Page 2, "In the knapsack problems some authors considered the used of dynamic programming too, that were [19] proposed ..." shall be revised as "In the knapsack problems, some authors considered the uses of dynamic programming too, that is [19] proposed ..."
2. In Page 2, "Other research area that used dynamic programming was routing..." shall be revised as "Other research area that uses dynamic programming is routing..."
3. The acronym of approximate dynamic programming, which is ADP, is defined in the text. This acronym shall be used in the following text, do not use the full name anymore in the following text.
4. In Page 3, "Dynamic programming was used to manage at a plantation too." shall be revised as "Dynamic programming is used to manage at a plantation too."

In Section 2

5. Notations and symbols shall be written in the italic form.
6. Please use the MATHTYPE to type the equations.

In Section 3

7. The equations given in Table 1 do not show the decreasing quality. It can be seen that the percentage of the old buds (x) is increased. Perhaps, some explanation on this part shall be made.
8. Notice that the numbers involving the decimal point are typed using comma (,). This may give a confusion. Please use dot (.) for the decimal point number, for example, write 3.336 instead of using 3,336.
9. Notations and symbols shall be written in the italic form.
10. Please writing "...in Tables 2, 3, 4 and 5, respectively" rather than using "... in Table 2, 3, 4, and 5 respectively."
11. In Table 5, do not see the row of the period  $n = 2$ . Is it a mistake? Please check.
12. In Page 7, "...good condition of 70% to 62% or ..." why the percentage mentioned is 70% to 62%? Normally, it shall be mentioned as 62% to 70%. The same comment goes to the other two statements.
13. Please write "Equations (1) to (14)" instead of using "equation (1) to (14)".
14. In Table 8, the item titles of the last two columns are not written in the English language. Please check.
15. Please write "Tables 6 to 8" instead of using "Table 8 to 6".

In Section 4

16. The section title shall be "Section 4 Conclusion", not "Section 4 Conclusion".
17. "The conclusion this paper are as follows" shall be revised as "The conclusion on this paper are made as follows".
18. The conclusion is too short.

In Section 5

19. Actually, "Section 5 References" does not need to put the section number, just write "References" enough.

20. Please check the format of writing the references.
