Manuscript Title: Determinants of breast cancer screening practice among women in Indonesia: a nationwide study

Dear Editor in Chief- Asian Pacific Journal of Cancer Prevention

We'd like to send responses to reviewer's comments for our manuscript. We completed with revised manuscript that uploaded a version of our manuscript highlighting any revisions made.

Reviewer report #1:

The method section need more improvement. How they recruited, electronic? Manual, what kind of questionnaire ear, how many responses, not response.

Minor comment throughout the manuscript.

Author responses #1:

Thank you for your suggestion. We have revised manuscript with highlight have uploaded. For method, we have revised the content of our manuscript especially in the part of the materials and method section.

These three provinces were selected purposively as the location of the study because they were included in Indonesia's effort to prevent breast cancer and able to represent the diverse socioeconomic and culture of Indonesia (Figure 1). All participants living in either rural and urban areas were recruited in this study based on the result of sampling using the stratified sampling method where strata were based on province and locality (rural and urban) combinations frame. The inclusion criteria for this study were Indonesian women aged ≥ 18 years old living in a rural or urban area of Yogyakarta, East Nusa Tenggara, and South Sumatera provinces; were able to read and understood the Indonesian language and willing to participate in this study. Women with a history of breast cancer and who were pregnant or breastfeeding were excluded. A questionnaire was then administered from March to May 2016 to the eligible participants. Participants were collected until the data collection was completed by means of a participant self-report. Of the total 827 participants with a response rate of 94.8% successfully participated in this study.

Reviewer report #1:

Determine the major data collected? Define breast cancer screening? BSE, Mammography? what

Author responses #1:

Thank you very much. We have added and uploaded our revised manuscript regarding the data collection process.

The dependent variable of this study was breast cancer screening consisted of Yes-No questions that "did you ever have clinical breast examination (CBE) or mammogram or ultrasonography ever at any point per year in their life". Confirming that they have done mammography/CBE/ultrasonography, the data from the interview results are then confirmed in the registration data at the primary health care centre, and if the participant is diagnosed with breast cancer, then it is categorized as "Yes" and vice versa.

Reviewer report#1:

Expand to include population place of residency (the state of South Sumatera, Yogyakarta, and East Nusa Tenggara, Indonesia)

Author responses #1:

We have added and revised Table 1. Thank you.
