Dear Trianik Widyaningrum:

Thank you for submitting your work, titled "Levels of Bioethanol of Dragon Fruit Peel (Hylocereus polyrhizus) With The Addition of Cellulase Enzymes From Trichoderma reesei and Aspergillus niger", to Journal of Tropical Biodiversity and Biotechnology. After reviewing your submission, we found that your manuscript has a merit for publication.

However, we think that the manuscript is not suitable to be published as a full Research Article. Instead, we think it can be published as a Short Communication. Hence, we invite you to rewrite the manuscript according to this guideline:

1. Short Communications should be arranged in the same way as full Research Articles, except that the Introduction, Results, and Discussion sections are in a combined section with no section headings.

Dear Ms. Widyaningrum,

Thank you for your email. However, we would like you to format the paper as a Short Communication according to the following guidelines:

1. General Instructions:

- Manuscripts must be written in English.
- Format manuscripts for A4 (21 x 30 cm) paper and single column.
- Number all pages sequentially.
- Number all lines in the text beginning on the title page
- Use Times New Roman 12 pt font. Use italics only for scientific names.
- Use only left margin justify. Indent the first sentence of all paragraphs.
- Double-space throughout, including title page, abstract, literature cited, tables, and figure legends.

2. The manuscript should be divided into Abstract, main body, and References list.

3. The Abstract should not exceed 100 words.

4. The main text is a combination of Introduction, Methods, Results, Discussion, and Conclusion sections with no section heading. It should not exceed 1,200 words.

5. The total number of figures and tables should not exceed four.

6. The reference style should follow our guidelines, it can be found here: <https://journal.ugm.ac.id/jtbb/about/submissions#authorGuidelines>.
