Dear Editor,

I sent the article entitled "The Television Business in Indonesia: A Comparative Study of the Old Regime, the New Order, and the Reform Era."

In all countries, the television broadcasting industry gets the full attention of the government, including in the state of Indonesia. Every government tends to regulate this sector differently, according to the political situation and interests of the time.

In Indonesia, the television industry has been present since the Old Order in 1962 and began to flourish in the New Order, growing fast in the Reform Era. Each period of government has a differential regulation of this industry. Unfortunately, the study of television in Indonesia is still rare and discuss partially. This article explains the comparison of television business in all of the government era.

I approaching 11 aspects were highlighted; namely, the broadcasting system, broadcasting ownership, the institutional categories of broadcasting, the purposes, the funding, broadcasting coverage, control and supervision, licensing authority, the freedom of the press, the trends of media content, and the position of viewers.

I found that although since independence Indonesia has been based on Pancasila democracy, in every era of government there have been differences in TV broadcasting arrangements.

This study gives the reader recognizes the Indonesian television industry in every regime, and reports on lessons on how to better develop TV industries in other countries. In my opinion, this topic appeals to the readers of your journal who are concern about the television business.

This manuscript describes original work and is not under consideration by any other journal. All authors approved the manuscript and this submission.

I appreciate your time and look forward to your response. Hopefully, I can received your good news in the near future.

Sincerely yours,

Rendra Widyatama

Dear author, attached you can find the edited version of your paper as it is prepared for publishing in the upcoming issue. I want to ask if you could reorganize the text explaining table 2, and move the table so it would fit the page better. Maybe you can move some of the explanations after the table and bring it forward with two paragraphs. If this can not be done we need to leave almost half a page empty.

Please check and us back your solution, preferably by Monday, March 26.

regards,
Tomina Saveanu
