INTERNATIONAL UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE ON ENGLISH EDUCATION 2023

IUCEE

UNIVERSITAS AHMAD DAHLAN
YOGYAKARTA, INDONESIA

Welcome Address
Dean of Faculty of Teacher Training and Education

Ladies and gentlemen, esteemed speakers and presenters, and distinguished participants,

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you all to the International Undergraduate Conference on English Education, organized by the English Education Study Program of Ahmad Dahlan University, on "Learning Beyond the Classroom in the Digital Era." Today, we gather here to explore the immense potential and transformative power of digital technologies in shaping the future of education. This conference serves as a platform for insightful discussions, fruitful exchanges, and collaborative efforts to harness the full potential of learning in the 21st century.

In this fast-paced and interconnected world, where technology permeates almost every aspect of our lives, the way we acquire knowledge and skills has undergone a significant paradigm shift. Gone are the days when learning was confined to the four walls of a classroom, limited by textbooks and traditional pedagogical methods. We find ourselves in an era where learning has become a dynamic, borderless, and lifelong endeavor, with digital technologies at the forefront of this revolution.

The digital era has opened up a world of opportunities for both learners and educators. Students now have access to a vast array of information, enabling them to pursue their interests, deepen their knowledge, and cultivate essential skills. They can learn at their own pace, tailor their learning experiences to their individual needs, and collaborate with peers and experts from around the world. Furthermore, digital technologies have provided avenues for inclusive education, ensuring that learners with diverse backgrounds and abilities can access quality education.

For educators, the digital era has transformed their role from being mere disseminators of information to facilitators of learning. They have the opportunity to leverage technology to create engaging and interactive learning environments, where students are active participants in their own education. Educators can harness the power of data and analytics to gain insights into student progress, adapt their teaching strategies, and personalize learning experiences. By embracing digital tools and platforms, educators can foster creativity, critical thinking, and collaboration among their students.

However, as we explore the potentials of learning beyond the classroom in the digital era, we must also address the challenges and concerns that arise. We must ensure that technology is harnessed in an ethical and responsible manner, safeguarding the privacy and security of learners. We must bridge the digital divide, ensuring that all learners, regardless of their socioeconomic status or geographic location, have equitable access to digital resources. We must critically examine the impact of techno logy on social interaction, mental well-being, and the development of essential life skills.

In closing, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all the participants, and organizers who have made this conference possible. I extend a warm welcome to our distinguished speakers and presenters, whose expertise and knowledge will undoubtedly enrich our discussions. Together, let us embark on this journey of exploration and discovery as we unlock the infinite possibilities of learning beyond the classroom in the digital era.

Thank you, and may this conference be a resounding success!

Ladies and gentlemen,

Esteemed keynote speakers,

Fellow presenters and students,

A warm welcome to all of you at the International Undergraduate Conference on "Learning Beyond the Classroom." It is truly a momentous occasion as we gather here today to celebrate the immense value and significance of education that transcends the traditional boundaries of the classroom.

I stand before you with great pride, representing a generation that is redefining the meaning of learning. We, the youth of today, are breaking free from the constraints of conventional education and embracing a world of endless possibilities. We recognize that true knowledge is not confined to textbooks or lectures alone but can be found in the myriad experiences that shape our lives.

The theme of this conference, "Learning Beyond the Classroom," reflects our collective determination to explore the less unfamiliar terrain of education. It symbolizes our commitment to fostering a holistic learning environment where creativity, critical thinking, and innovation flourish. Today, we come together as passionate learners to share our unique journeys, discoveries, and insights that have been nurtured beyond the confines of the traditional educational system.

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to the organizing committee, whose tireless efforts have made this conference a reality. Let us acknowledge their dedication with a round of applause.

To the students presenting their work today, I offer my congratulations. Your passion, dedication, and resilience are commendable. I encourage you to embrace the opportunity to learn from one another.

Once again, I extend a warm welcome to all of you, and I wish you a truly enriching and transformative experience at this Undergraduate Conference on "Learning Beyond the Classroom." Thank you.

Chairperson of IUCEE 2023

Assalamualakum warrahmatullah wa barakatuh

I am truly pleased to welcome you to the International Undergraduate Conference on English Education 2023. Allow me to extend my deepest gratitude to the honorable key note speakers and featured speakers at this conference, in particular, I am very much privileged to have Dr. Katrina Tour of Monash University, Australia, who has produced high impact scholarly work around digital literacy practice and technology-enhanced learning, Dr. Stephanie Oudghiri of Purdue University, USA, whose work with immigrants and bilingual issues has led her to discover the primacy of narrative inquiry as a research approach to tapping into the essence of human experience, Dr. Hijril Ismail of Universitas Muhammadiyyah Mataram, and Dr. Mark Philip Paderan of University of Makati, Philippines, Also present at this conference to represent remarkable achievement by PBI UAD alumni, Muhammad Iqwan Sanjani, PhD candidate at UNSW Sydney Australia, and Argi Afriandi, Master degree student at Monash University Australia. My sincere appreciation also goes to all of the student presenters and participants in this conference.

As we all have seen, over the last decade, the landscape of education has changed in many ways. We have entered an era when the notion of space and time has become blurred as the internet and digital technology enable people from multiple locations and cultural backgrounds to connect and interact simultaneously on networked digital platforms. This technological disruption has considerable impact on how teaching and learning takes place. Learning is no longer confined to classroom walls like what it used to be. Learners nowadays are afforded with ample opportunities to explore new venues for learning and to access a variety of knowledge through digital space. It has become a commonplace practice of young people or milenials to engage in everyday digital literacy practice for the purpose of social interaction, entertainment, knowledge building and self-capacity development. In terms of language learning, there is ample evidence showing how young people take advantage of learning affordances which come along with the need to make social interaction through online platforms. Many have become members of particular global affinity group, allowing them to hone their skills in English in ways that are more liberating and accommodating to their identity as L2 learners, reflecting much of what Bhabha (1994) dubs as 'third space' pedagogy.

One important implication of the increasingly digitized forms of communication and learning is that the requirement to learn is now a lifelong pursuit with learning opportunities integrated into study, work and leisure. However, there remains some questions around whether universities and schools can support learners' development of digital literacy practice. It is within this notion that this year, the theme 'Learning beyond classroom in digital era' has been purposefully selected for the IUCEE 2023 to resonate with current realities around learners' super diverse digital literacy engagement. This year, we have received as many as 116 abstracts which cover a diverse range of topics, highlighting how this conference has drawn strong interest from university student community, ELT lectures and academics at large. We aspire, through this conference, to build awareness of the need to develop learners' individual capacity to become lifelong learners. Dr. Katrina Tour's presentation is definitely the one to look forward to as she will be presenting her ideas around blended learning in relation to digital literacy. We hope to gain invaluable insights into what blended learning truly means and how digital literacy practice, digital technology and media can be incorporated into educational curriculum in ways that allow learners to gradually develop the necessary personal qualities to become self-directed and lifelong learners.

Finally, I wish to thank members of the organizing committee for having put incredible effort into making this conference possible.

I wish you an engaging and fruitful experience during the conference
